

Notes on Contributors

1. Mark Mancall

Mark Mancall is a Professor of Modern Jewish history at Stanford University, USA. He has studied at Universities in Helsinki, Leningrad, Taipei, Tokyo and Paris. At Stanford, Professor Mancall teaches courses on the state of Israel, modern South and Southeast Asia and on Buddhist social and political theory. In 1985 he won the Dinkelspiel Award for Outstanding Service to Undergraduate Education.

Email: mmancall@stanford.edu

2. Peter D. Hershock

Hershock is the Co-ordinator of the Summer and Outreach programs at the Asian Studies Development Program, East West Centre, Hawaii. His research interests include infusing Asian content into core curriculum at American Universities, and cultural and social criticism from Buddhist perspectives. Mr Hershock's recent publications include Technology and Cultural Values: On the Edge of the Third Millennium (2003) and Reinventing the Wheel: A Buddhist Response to the Information Age (1999).

Email: hershock@EastWestCenter.org

3. Steven Gorelick

Gorelick is the US Programs Director of the International Society for Ecology and Culture. He has published a number of articles on globalisation and environmental issues and is the co-author of Bringing the Food Economy Home: Local Alternatives to Global Agribusiness (2002).

Email: s.gorelick@isec.org.uk

4. Frank Dixon

Dixon is a Managing Director of Innovest Strategic Value Advisors, an international financial service firm. His expertise includes advising business and government on sustainability, system change and enhancing financial performance through increased corporate responsibility.

Email: fdixon@innovestgroup.com

5. Tracy Worcester

Worcester is a writer, presenter and fundraiser for the ecological movement. She is currently the Associate Director of the International Society for Ecology and Culture.

Email: tracy@tracyworchester.f9.co.uk

6. Christopher B. Faris

Faris is currently a UN Volunteer working with the Bhutanese Planning Commission on information and communication technology policy.

Email: chris.faris@undp.org

7. Michael Rowbotham

Rowbotham is an author and lecturer in the area of economics. His publications include the books, The Grip of Death: A Study of Modern Money, Debt Slavery and Destructive Economics and Globalisation, Debt and the Dollar Empire.

Email: microbot@microbot.f9.co.uk

8. Rajni Bakshi

Rajni Bakshi is journalist and freelance writer in Mumbai, India. She is currently writing a book, Market: From Master to Servant, supported by a research fellowship from the Centre for Education and Documentation in Mumbai. Ms Rajni Bakshi has published a number of books on topics such as alternative economics, Ghandi-inspired activism and the textile industry.

Email: rajnibakshi@yahoo.com

9. Hans van Willenswaard

Willenswaard is the manager of international projects, at the Suan Nguen Mee Ma Company, Bangkok, Thailand. He has written a number of publications on the culture of peace, the environment, agriculture and education.

Email: suanco@ksc.th.com

10. Sander G. Tideman

Tideman is a lawyer specializing in international economic law and Asian legal systems. As a consultant, Mr Tideman has focused on sustainability and development finance advising on projects for the World Bank, governments, private companies and UN agencies. He is the author of a number of publications including, Doing Business in China (Netherlands, 1996) and Compassion or Competition; A Discussion of Human Values in Business and Economics with H.H. the Dalai Lama (Netherlands, 2000).

Email: sgtideman@compuserve.com

11. Wallapa Kuntiranont

Wallapa Kuntiranont is the Managing Director of the Suan Nguen Mee Ma Company in Bangkok, Thailand.

Email: suanco@ksc.th.com

12. Ron Colman

Colman is the founder and Executive Director of GPI Atlantic (Canada) which is currently working with three Nova Scotia communities to develop measures of well-being and sustainable development. Dr Colman has written a number of reports on indicators of population health, community well-being, natural resource health, and environmental quality for the Genuine Progress Index. Dr Colman is the editor of a national magazine, Reality Check: The Canadian Review of Well-Being.

Email: coleman@hfx.eastlink.ca

13. Ross McDonald

McDonald is based at the Mira Szaszy Centre for Maori and Pacific Development, University of Auckland Business School, New Zealand.

Email: ra.mcdonald@auckland.ac.nz

14. Ruut Venhoven

Ruut Venhoven is a Professor of 'Social Conditions for Human Happiness' at the University of Erasmus, Rotterdam and a Professor of 'Humanism' at the University of Utrecht, the Netherlands. Professor Venhoven's research is on the subjective quality of life. He is director of the 'World Database of Happiness'. His major publications include: Conditions of Happiness (1984), Happiness in Nations (1993), Happy Life Expectancy (1997) and Quality-of-life in individualistic society (1993). Professor Venhoven is also the Editor of the Journal of Happiness Studies.

Email: veenhoven@fsw.eur.nl

15. Nic Marks

Nic Marks is an associate at the New Economics Foundation. He co-authored the first edition of the UK Index of Sustainable Economics Welfare (1994). He has worked closely with Chilean Ecological Economist, Max Neef, whose policy ideas partly inspired the Well-being program.

Email: nic.marks@neweconomics.org

16. Suellen Donnelly

Donnelly is a psychologist practicing in the field of Positive Psychology. Her particular research interest is the relationship between mindfulness practices with personal happiness.

Email: suellen.donnelly@bigpond.com

17. Dr. Yongyuth Kajorntham, Apisit Thamrongwarangoon, Tantip Thamrongwarangoon

Apisit Thamrongwarangoon M.D. is currently the Director of the Ubonrat Community Hospital in Khon Kaen Province, Thailand. His research interests include preventative and community based medicine and the development of happiness indicators for Thailand.

Email: Ubonrat08@hotmail.com

18. Prabhat Pankaj and Tshering Dorji

Pankaj teaches economics at Sherubtse College, Bhutan. His research interests are applied microeconomics, environmental economics, world trade and the environment. Mr Dorji is also a lecturer at Sherubtse College, Bhutan.

19. Chris Whitehouse and Dr. Thomas Winderl

Chris Whitehouse oversees the United Nations Volunteers (Bhutan) programme in Thimphu Bhutan. He has published articles on human rights, community mobilization and HIV/AIDS.

Email: whitehousechris@yahoo.com

Winderl is the head of the Poverty Unit at the UN Development Programme, Thimphu Bhutan. His recent publications include the book, Nationalism, Nation and State (1999) and numerous articles on European nation building and politics.

Email: Thomas@Winderl.net

20. Sulak Sivaraksa

Sulak Sivaraksa is an activist, economist and a philosopher from Thailand. He is known for using Buddhist ethics for social and spiritual transformation. He is the President of Santi Pracha Dhamma Institute in Thailand.

21. Michael R Levenson, Patricia A Jennings, Michelle deMello, Thao Le, & Carolyn M Aldwin.

Michael Levenson is a psychologist currently working for the Department of Human and Community Development in California, USA. He has held numerous academic appointments in the field of psychology and published prolifically on social psychology, aging and psychotherapy.

Email: mrlevenson@ucdavis.edu

Patricia Jennings is currently a PhD candidate in human development at the University of California, USA. Her current research focuses on the role of personality, stress, and coping in the development of wisdom. Ms Jennings other areas of specialization include meditation research, parenting, child development and adult self-transcendent development. She has co-published in the areas of contemplative psychology and self-transcendence in adulthood and made numerous presentations in similar areas.

Email: pajennings@ucdavis.edu

22. Frank Bracho

Bracho was the former Ambassador of Venezuela to India. His academic expertise is in the area of economics and international affairs. Mr Bracho has been active in various civil society movements, particularly associated with environmental concerns. He has published widely on areas such as alternative economics, health, the environment, and globalisation.

Email: natufe@cantv.net

23. Pavel Novacek

Novacek is the Director of the Centre for Interdisciplinary Studies, Palacky University, Olomouc, Czech Republic. His academic expertise lies in the area of environmental protection.

Email: nov@aix.upol.cz

24. Joseph Johnson

Johnson is the Founder and President of the Paramita Group, Bangkok, Thailand. This role involves the supervision of research on the relationship between Buddhist thought and human development theory. Mr Johnson has presented papers at numerous conferences on Buddhist perspectives on development.

Email: josephh@princeton.edu

25. Dharmachari Lokamitra (Jeremy Goody)

Lokamitra lives and works in Pune, India, assisting to develop a Buddhist community and various social works programs. He is also involved in developing the Nagarjuna Institute in Nagpur, devoted to training in Buddhist Dharma and the application of Buddhist principles into social action. For many years Lokamitra was the Field Director of the Karuna Trust (U.K.) which funds educational and health projects for the underprivileged in the Indian sub-continent.

Email: lokamitra@vsnl.com

26. Khenpo Phuntsok Tashi

Khenpo Phuntsok Tashi is a Buddhist monk and lecturer who works at the National Museum of Bhutan. He is a member of the Academic Board for the Institute for Language and Culture Studies in Thimphu, Bhutan. Khenpo Tashi's areas of interest are poetry, philosophy and environmental philosophy. He has published a number of texts in the area of Buddhist arts, poetry and practice.

Email: kedchigkhen@yahoo.com

27. Buddhadasa Hewavitharana

Hewavitharana is an economist specializing in economic development and planning. He has had an extensive academic career in Sri Lanka and the United Kingdom and at retirement was conferred the title Emeritus Professor of Economics. He has published over twenty articles and books dealing with a variety of developmental issues. He is the founder President of the Centre for Buddhism (International).

Email: fhewa@sltnet.lk

28. Jean Karel Hylkema

Jean Karel Hylkema is the President and Managing Director of the Buddhist Broadcasting Foundation, the Netherlands. The foundation broadcasts as a part of the Dutch public broadcasting system, programs from the Buddhist perspective.

Email: jkh@boeddhistischeomroep.nl

29. Karma Gayleg

Karma Gayley is as a lecturer at the Royal Bhutan Institute of Technology in Phuntsholing, Bhutan.

Email: kukpa2002@yahoo.com.in

30. Pema Tenzin

Mr. Pema Tenzin is the Managing Director of Housing Development Corporation, Thimphu, Bhutan. Prior to this, he worked as the Joint Secretary at the Ministry of Finance, Royal Government of Bhutan.

31. Carolyn M. Aldwin

Aldwin is a developmental psychologist from the University of California, Davis, USA. Her research interests are in the area of adult development and aging. She has published books and a wide range of journal articles in her area of expertise, including, Stress, Coping and Development: An Integrative Approach (New York, 1995).

E-mail: cmaldwin@ucdavis.edu

32. Dr. Tantip Thamrongwarangoon M.D.

Thamrongwarangoon is a medical doctor and currently the Secretary-General of the Foundation for Sustainable Community Development for Quality of Life at the Ubonrat Community Hospital, Khon Kaen, Thailand. His research has focused on community medicine and developing happiness indicators for the population of Thailand.

Email: Ubonrat08@hotmail.com

33. Dr. Chencho Dorji

Chencho Dorji is a psychiatrist at the Jigme Dorji Wangchuk National Hospital, Thimphu, Bhutan.

Email: dorjichencho@hotmail.com

34. Tashi Zangmo

Tashi Zangmo is currently enrolled in a doctoral program focusing on education and development at the Centre for International Education, University of Massachusetts, USA.

Email: tashiz@educ.unmass.edu

35. Steven Evans

Evans is currently working as a communications specialist for the International Center for Ethnographic Studies in Atlanta, USA.

Email: sevans@saedge.org

36. Linda Leaming

Linda Leaming is a freelance writer who lives in Thimphu.

Email: Linda@druknet.bt

37. Trudy Sable

Sable is an anthropologist and the Director of the Labrador Project at the Gorsebrook Research Institute for Atlantic Canadian Studies. The Labrador project is a research partnership with the Innu people from the Quebec-Labrador peninsula, designed to develop baseline ecological data of the landscape from both Innu and western scientific perspectives. The goal of the program is to develop educational programs to train Innu in the management and protection of their ancestral lands based on traditional values and current community needs. Ms Sable has published and spoken widely on indigenous anthropology and development.